

The Mexican Trophies.

We had the pleasure of witnessing today the presentation of the flags which were taken from the enemy on the 8th and 9th of May. They were brought to Washington by Col. Payne, and they were delivered to the President of the United States in the presence of a multitude of officers of the government, and of the army, and of ladies and gentlemen. The gallant colonel, who was honored with this acceptable mission, was himself engaged in these memorable scenes, and was wounded on the morning of the 9th in his hip, by a musket ball which has not yet been extracted from the vicinity of the spine. For the satisfaction of his relations in Virginia, and his numerous friends everywhere we are happy to state that his general health is good; and that he is flattered with the hope of recovering the full use of his limbs at no distant period. The following in his address to the President of the United States:

"Mr. President: Under the direction of my commanding general, I am the honored instrument, (and I here take occasion to express my thanks for the distinguished compliment,) of presenting to your excellency these trophies of victory, won in the battles of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma. It is not in the spirit of triumph over a defeated, and, I must say, gallant enemy, that they are presented on the part of the army; but rather in conformity with usage, to gratify popular curiosity, and as some evidence that the soldiers of the republic have done their duty."

The President received the flags, lances, &c., with the feeling which became him. They are almost all of them torn by cannon ball or musket bullets, and the staffs of some of them have not escaped the fortunes of war. Not having time to day to inspect these trophies critically, and give a minute description of them, we beg leave to adopt the account which was given in the New Orleans Tropic of the 28th ultimo.

"ONE OF THE MEXICAN TROPHIES."

"Among the most interesting relics obtained in the battles of the 8th and 9th, are the standards of the different companies and regiments. We spent a half hour in examining these pompous and circumstances of war with the greatest interest. We found eighteen in all, seventeen of which are of tri-colored woollen or baize cloth, ornamented with the appropriate letters and symbols. They are mounted staffs, sharpened with iron, and were not only ornamental, but dangerous as offensive weapons. But the flag of the most absorbing interest is lettered.

'Battalion Guardia Costa de Tampico'

"This magnificent and torn flag, apart from its associations, is remarkable for its appearance, and the materials of which it is formed. It is of large size, its fields of tri-colored silk, (green, white and red.) In the centre is embroidered the Mexican coat of arms, more beautifully than we conceived any modern Penelope had power to do, even if her delicate fingers were over skillful at her work. The Mexican eagle, with its outstretched wings fairly lay before us. Each rustle of the flag on which it rested caused the prismatic colors of the atmosphere to play over the brilliant gloss-silk needle-work as brilliantly as if it had been the plumage of the bird itself. Some fair Mexican damsel's bright eyes must have grown weary under their long lashes, in this delicate, ly coquettish nature. Perhaps it were the work of coistered nuns, it is so elaborate—some holy sisterhood, who, by ascetic life, have long attenuated fingers, and thus made more nimble than those possessed by the 'world's gazers' of their sex. The members of a whole convent, probably, said their matins, and then by turns wrought upon that banner, which they fondly hoped was destined to lead gloriously the arms of their country in every fight. Alas! for the fortunes of war. That flag, in the battle of Palo Alto, was torn by our cannon shot, and now bears upon its folds the shattered shreds thus rudely made. At Resaca de la Palma it waved over the bravest troops, and floated in the wind as long as its regiment lasted before the terrible fire of our arms. When all was lost, its bearer tore it from its staff, and fled to save it from the stain of capture. Such, however, was not to be its fortune. The brave man was met by one of our own troops and hand to hand they fought for the prize—the Mexican nerved by every feeling of patriotism, the American, by every sentiment of a soldier's ambition. The brave standard-bearer hit the dust and the precious charge became the object of idle curiosity in the hands of his enemy. May it ever be respected among our people as the only evidence existing of the once brave 'Battalion de Tampico.' These trophies are in charge of Colonel M. M. Payne, and will be by him carried to Washington."

A FEARFUL SCENE.—If the New York Sun had waited a little longer it might have had some foundation for a tale of the horrible, and not been under the necessity of fabricating such a hoax as that which represented Van Amburgh, the fool-hardy "lion-king," as torn to pieces, the other day by one of his tigers. The Planter's Banner gives an account of an awfully singular occurrence which took place on the plantation of John Rice, Bayou Sale, La., on the night of the 4th July.

At about nine o'clock, a colored man named Isaac, a valuable mechanic, belonging to Henry C. Dwight, of Franklin, La., was standing near a cabin in the "quarters," when a large panther came up to within a few feet of him. It was a moonlight night, and he could see the panther crouched ready to spring upon him. He immediately commenced retreating towards where a number of slaves were collected, with his eye on the animal. The latter, however, not at all daunted, pursued him. After backing a few paces, he turned to run, when the panther sprang upon him from a distance of about ten feet, seizing his left arm, near the shoulder, in his mouth, and striking his claws into his back! The man was thrown down, but immediately arose partially, still in the grasp of the panther, and called loudly for assistance. His cries gathered the slaves and dogs, but the panther held on some time, even after the dogs had seized him. Through the assistance of the dogs, on whom the panther turned, the poor man freed himself from the uncomfortable embrace, but the ferocious animal renewed the attack, springing upon him again and seizing him by the left shoulder. By this time, several other slaves had collected with clubs and axes, and Isaac made his escape, with his arm and shoulder dreadfully lacerated and his back severely scratched, while the panther made for the bayou, pursued by the dogs. In the meantime, a gun was procured and the animal shot, while engaged in a furious fight with the dogs. He measures eight feet from the nose to the tip of the tail; and weighed about 200 lbs. The animal is the Cougar, or Puma, commonly called, in this country, the panther, and is the largest and most formidable of the Cat kind in North America.—Balt. Sat. Visitor.

A PATRIOTIC CLERGYMAN.—In revolutionary times some of the clergy not only distinguished themselves by advocating the cause of liberty in the pulpits but marched to the field, and fought gallantly. Some of this sort yet linger among us. One of them is Rev. R. A. Stewart of Louisiana, who commands a fine body of volunteers. On the 1st of June he threw aside his uniform, and discharged, for the first time, his clerical duties in Mexico. The N. O. Tropic gives the following account of his sermon:

"The Rev. Captain took for his text, 'If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow, and shed not innocent blood in this place, neither walk after other gods to you hurt:'

"Then I will cause you to dwell together in this place, in the land that I gave to your fathers forever and ever." Jer. vii. 6, 7.

The comments and illustrations were apposite in the extreme, and suggested by the scenes around the speaker. He dwelt upon the incidents of the preceding month and of the beautiful spectacle shown to the world by a conquering army, extending its laws over a country which were more benign, more liberal, more protecting, than those displaced by the fortunes of war. This, said the speaker, warning with his subject, is carrying out the spirit of the text,—this is not oppressing the stranger, or fatherless, or the widow, or shedding innocent blood! Such a peaceful conquest, he continued, worthily rivals the gallant feats of arms that shone forth on the fields of Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma—such a peaceful contest went beyond the effect of arms—it not only conquered the body, but carried willingly captive the mind. It was calculated to shed light over the dark broders of Tampanias—to make its inhabitants embrace the blessings of freedom—to open their eyes to the degradations of their own government that enslaves alike their bodies and their minds.

The soldier preacher then passed on to the second part of his text.—Then I will cause you to dwell in this place, in the land I gave to your fathers forever and ever. It would be impossible for us to give the slightest idea of the conclusion of this remarkable discourse. The Rev. speaker showed most plainly and beautifully, that it was the order of Providence that the Anglo-Saxon race was not only to take possession of the whole North American continent, but to influence and modify the character of the world—that such was meant by the land I gave your fathers forever and ever.

He stated that the American people were children of destiny, and were the passive instruments in the hands of an overruling power, to carry out its great designs, and beautifully illustrated this position by a rapid glance at the history of our nation in times past and the present. He concluded by hoping that hostilities with Mexico would cease—that wiser counsels would govern at her capitol—and that peace would again extend its wings over her distracted land; and with a truly eloquent burst of patriotism upon the christian duty of every man standing by his country, so long as a single foe remained in arms against her, he sat down, amidst deep, silent, powerfully expressed feeling.

CORRECTION.—M. Payne, a French chemist of acknowledged scientific attainments, declares, in a communication to the Academy of Science at Paris, that coffee is an eminently nutritive article, as it contains a large quantity of azote. He states that an infusion of coffee in the proportion of 10 grammes (rather more than 5 ounces) to a litre of water, contains 20 grammes of alimentary substance, being three times as much as would be the case with an infusion of tea in the same proportions. He adds, that half a litre of coffee prepared as above, mixed with the same quantity of milk, and properly sweetened, is much more nutritive than double the quantity of soup (bouillon). Thus far as to the nutritive properties of coffee, but its chief value says the author, consists in its flavor, its agreeable aroma, and its stimulating character.

A planter in Virginia once owned a slave in connection with one of his neighbors. He was a pious man, and would sometimes wind off his prayers by saying: "O Lord! in addition to all the blessings I, a sinner, have asked at your hands, will you in your infinite mercy and goodness, condescend to bless my half of Pomp!"

THE GREAT CANADIAN REMEDY.

Winer's PECTORAL SYRUP.

Of Hoarhound and Elecampane.

Unrivalled for the cure of Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Whooping Cough, difficulty of Breathing, Pleurisy, Consumption, and all diseases of the Lungs. Bronchitis, a disease that is sending thousands to a premature grave, under the fictitious name of Consumption, can be cured by the use of this medicine. For several years past, this medicine has been in use in Canada, where it has become universally known, and is considered the best medicine in use for all pulmonary diseases. The great success which has attended its use in that country, and the many truly wonderful cures it has effected, has induced the proprietors to introduce it into the United States, confident of its being the most safe and valuable remedy ever discovered, and adapted to all diseases of the lungs, when any of the functions do not perform their natural or healthy office, creating a most gradual and soothing influence over the functions of the whole system, diminishing excitement when excessive, allaying irritation, orness and pain, and speedily imparting renewed vigor to the whole frame.

BROOKLYN, January 22, 1846.
Messrs. Winer & Co., 83 Maiden Lane, New York.—Sirs:—A friend of mine bearing me complaint of a very severe cough and hoarseness, together with a discharge from which I had suffered for some time back, caused by a severe cold suddenly taken, purchased a bottle of your syrup of Hoarhound and Elecampane, and gave it to me. When I commenced taking it, I could not speak above my breath, nor could I sleep without waking up in my bed in the night. My cough was very violent, and it was necessary to use it frequently; but after taking three or four bottles, the coughing ceased, and I have since been perfectly well. I have taken one bottle of the syrup, and I feel much relieved, together with the pain caused by coughing; I have continued its use until I have taken about one-half of the bottle. I am perfectly free from any cough now, and am convinced that if I had not obtained relief, the inflammation of the lungs would have been brought on. Consumption. It is certainly the best medicine I have ever taken for such a complaint. The effect is soon felt, and I will do all in my power to make it known to my friends.

Yours, with much gratitude,
B. McDIVITT, 41 Front st.

CLEMEN'S INDIAN TONIC.

Infallible cure for Chills or Ague & Fever.

And a Nerve Remedy for Bilious, Remittent and other Fevers.

This Invaluable Medicine is purely vegetable. Unexampled success of this truly unrivalled Tonic in curing all the various cases of all other remedies have failed, and that too in cases of from six months to two years standing—warrants the assertion, that if taken according to the directions, it is infallible. A long list of certificates in proof of its infallibility, might be added; but those upon the wrapper are deemed sufficient.

It is not in the least nauseating, nor does it operate upon the bowels; but its salutary action upon the whole system is so charming, that every one is highly delighted at their speedy recovery of health. Such a remedy, the afflicted have long been in want of; one that cures speedily and permanently, without the usual caution to improve the constitution by a long and tedious course. From the great popularity of this medicine, many imitations professing to be CLEMEN'S INDIAN TONIC, are about. Therefore be sure to ask for that prepared by GEO. W. JOHNS, Nashville Tennessee, who is sole proprietor.

CAUTION.—To prevent frauds being upon the directions upon the bottle, the written signature of Geo. W. House, is affixed in the bottle of Geo. W. House, with the words "Clemens' Indian Tonic, prepared by Geo. W. House." All others are counterfeits.

DR. SPENCER'S VEGETABLE PILLS

And Vegetable Tonic and Restorative Bitters. A RE acknowledged by the hundreds and thousands who are using them, to be not only the most mild and pleasant in their operation, but the most perfectly innocent, safe, and efficient medicines ever offered to the public. Those who once make a trial of these pills and bitters, never afterwards feel willing to be without them, and find it sufficient proof of their good qualities.

In the South, where bilious disorders are so prevalent, these medicines annually save thousands of lives. They are known wherever the medical art is practised, abroad as well as at home; but the South especially has been the ground of their triumph, and though frequent attempts have been made to supersede them by persons whose experience should have restrained them from tampering with human life, Spencer's pills remain as heretofore, the popular medicine of the south and west. It seems, indeed, as if every attempt at rivalry only served to enhance their reputation, to increase the vast demand which has compelled the proprietor to double the capacity of his establishment, in order to afford the requisite supply. True science, however ignorant and capidity may assail its inventions, will carry the day at last, and for this reason the medicines of Dr. Spencer being the result of philosophical research and universally acknowledged medical skill, will maintain their position in the public favor, as long as disease exists, and health is considered a blessing.

In all diseases of the liver, stomach, and intestines, Spencer's pills and bitters are the only reliable preparations. They cleanse the system of its impurities, give strength and tone to all the organs of digestion, promote healthy secretions, purify the blood, cure dyspepsia and bilious complaints of every form and character, and, as a mild yet ear-aching cathartic, these pills are admitted by the profession to have no competitor in the whole range of medical science.

Pills 25 cts. per box; Bitters $1 per bottle. Sold by Brown & Co., Joliet; and W. S. MYERS, Lockport.

DR. HULL'S VEGETABLE FEVER AND AGUE AND ANTI FEVER PILLS.

"Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good."—1st Paul.

NONE need suffer from that distressing complaint, Chills and Fever, or Fever and Ague, for it is speedily and permanently cured by Dr. Hull's celebrated Anti-Fever Pills. They never fail to cure the chills and fever the first day when taken according to directions, and do not sick or grip the stomach, nor operate upon the bowels. Thousands of certificates have been presented to the proprietor by planters of the first respectability, physicians of eminence, and others who have used them, which might be given, but let the following from Judge Forrest, a gentleman of the first respectability, in Jefferson Co., Ala. suffice.

Jefferson county, Ala., Feb. 4, 1845. I certify that in the summer of 1843, I had a severe attack of Fever and Ague, and was for some time under the treatment of a physician, but received no benefit from his prescriptions; my disease continued to increase in the frequency and severity of its attacks. I at last had recourse to Dr. Hull's Fever and Ague Pills, and in using half a box was entirely cured, and have remained in good health ever since.

I afterwards had in my family several cases of Fever and Ague, and have in every instance made use of Hull's Pills, which have always immediately effected a cure.

Dr. Hull's Pills require no puffing where they are known, and where they are not, a single trial is sufficient to insure their adoption. Price $1 per box, with full directions. A Fresh supply just received and for sale by Brown & Co., Joliet, and W. S. MYERS, Lockport.

DR. HULL'S WORM LOZENGES

Children cry for Dr. Hull's Worm Lozenges. Only read what this medicine has done. Yorkville, Gilson Co., Tenn. Dec. 21, 1843. Dr. C. E. Hull.—Some months since your agent left with me, for sale, what he considered a large supply of your Worm Lozenges, but I have sold all out, and could have sold them (times as many more), had I been supplied to that amount. I hope you will instruct your agent to leave a much greater supply, when he comes this way again. Their use in my family has been of great benefit. Edward McCreedy, Esq. gave one to a child four years old, and the first dose brought away between thirty and forty worms. Mr. William McDaniel had a child when the physician pronounced it incurable, and said it would die, but the child was cured by using Dr. Hull's Worm Lozenges. Yours, Wm. McDaniel.
